

CENTER FOR STRATEGIC FORESIGHT
United States Government Accountability Office

2019 CENTER FELLOWS

Andy Hines is the Head of Graduate Studies in Foresight and an Assistant Professor and Program Coordinator of the Graduate Program in Foresight at the University of Houston. Before his move to academia, Hines served as a Futurist and Ideation Leader at Dow Chemical, a Global Trends Manager at the Kellogg Company, and as a Futurist and Partner at Coates & Jarratt, Inc. In addition, Hines co-authored Thinking About the Future with Peter Bishop in 2007 and Teaching About the Future in 2012.

Octavio Hinojosa-Mier is the Executive Director of the National Hispanic Corporate Council, which works with corporate America to provide its member companies a multi-layered approach and resources to understand future trends and effectively maximize the diversity of the Hispanic market. He has also served as the Vice President of Government Relations and Strategic Partnerships at Cultural Strategies, the Executive Director of the Hispanic Scholarship Consortium, the Chief Operations Officer of the San Antonio Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, the Executive Director of the Congressional Hispanic Leadership Institute, and as the Executive Director of the Congressional Hispanic Conference.

CENTER FOR
STRATEGIC FORESIGHT
United States Government Accountability Office

2019 CENTER FELLOWS

Brian Masterson is Senior Behavioral Health Medical Director for UnitedHealth Group and was founder of the Federal Health Futures Group. He served as the Acting Medical Chair for Global Health at the National Defense University and as the Chief of Clinical Medicine for the U.S. Air Force. Dr. Masterson is a distinguished graduate from the United States Air Force Academy, and a graduate of Harvard Medical School. He has completed a combined residency in Internal Medicine and Psychiatry from the University of Iowa and an Aerospace Medicine residency from the USAF School of Aerospace Medicine.

Catarina (Cat) Tully is the Co-Founder and Director of the School of International Futures, an independent consultancy that builds the capacity of business leaders, policy-makers, governments, and international organizations to use and gain value from strategic foresight. She also serves as a Director at FromOverHere, which consults and trains senior officials from governments around the world that are interested in building their strategic planning and foresight capabilities, and at NHJ Strategic Consulting, which helps clients survive and thrive through 21st century business risks and shocks.

Kristel Van der Elst is the Co-Founder and CEO of The Global Foresight Group, which equips clients to better understand possible future contexts and to make decisions that will allow them to prosper in a changing world. She is a visiting professor at the College of Europe and teaches in Executive Education programs at Saïd Business School, University of Oxford and at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine. For 10 years, she served as the Head of Strategic Foresight and as a Member of the Executive Committee at the World Economic Forum, where she co-authored the Global Risks 2011 Report.

CENTER FOR STRATEGIC FORESIGHT
United States Government Accountability Office

2019 CENTER FELLOWS

Jens Wandel is a Special Adviser to the Secretary-General on Reforms at the United Nations. He previously served within the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) as Assistant Administrator (Assistant Secretary-General) and as the Director of the Bureau of Management from 2012 to 2017. He has also served in several management functions focusing on change initiatives, including as Director of the Centre for Business Solutions, as Management Adviser and Project Director for the Work Improvement Tools Project, and as a country-level coordinator of UNDP's New Horizon 2001 change management exercise.

Amy Webb is a quantitative futurist and professor at NYU's Stern School of Business, where she developed and teaches the MBA course on strategic foresight and futures forecasting. She is also the founder of the Future Today Institute, which researches emerging technologies at the fringes and tracks them as they move towards the mainstream. She is the author of three books, including The Signals Are Talking: Why Today's Fringe is Tomorrow's Mainstream.

Angela Wilkinson is the Senior Director of the World Energy Council, where she offers strategic, informed, and impartial insights on the future development of the world energy system. She also serves as the CEO of Oxford Futures, an independent strategic advisory firm, and as an Associate Fellow at the University of Oxford. Previously, she served as the Head of Strategic Foresight at the OECD, where she was responsible for a whole-of-organization upgrade of strategic foresight capabilities and the development of new global foresight products and services.

CENTER FOR STRATEGIC FORESIGHT
United States Government Accountability Office

CENTER LEADERSHIP

James-Christian B. Blockwood is Managing Director for Strategic Planning and External Liaison at GAO. In this role, he supports the U.S. Comptroller General in facilitating innovation, capacity building and improving governance and accountability in the United States, and around the world. He is responsible for the GAO Strategic Plan and concurrently manages the agency's public, private, domestic and international relationships. He helped establish and oversees the GAO Center for Audit Excellence and the GAO Center for Strategic Foresight. Prior to GAO, he served as a Director in the Office of Policy and Planning at the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, as a Deputy Director in the Office of International Affairs at the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, and as an Intelligence Officer at the Defense Intelligence Agency. He received an MBA and M.A. in Government from Johns Hopkins University, M.S. of Strategic Intelligence from the National Defense Intelligence College, and B.A. in International Relations from Tufts University. He is a career member of the Senior Executive Service, an inaugural Presidential Leadership Scholar, and Fellow of the National Academy of Public Administration.

Stephen Sanford leads strategic planning and foresight programs for GAO and is Director of the GAO Center for Strategic Foresight. He most recently led the development of GAO's 2018-2023 Strategic Plan and accompanying trends, and in 2018 he led the team that produced GAO's technology assessment for the Comptroller General Forum on Artificial Intelligence. He frequently speaks to public sector, international, and private sector organizations on the use of foresight and strategic planning to improve organizational performance. Prior to GAO, he led business improvement programs for Fortune 50 and FTSE 100 companies in Brussels, Paris, and London and was responsible for S&T policy issues at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. He holds a BA from the University of Pennsylvania and an MBA with distinction from INSEAD in France.

Sharaille A. Grzesiak is Foresight and Strategic Analyst at GAO. She led the development of the trend analysis in GAO's Strategic Plan and supports foresight programs across the agency. Prior to GAO, she helped various federal agencies develop their own foresight and environmental scanning processes. In 2018, she was added to the List of the World's Top Female Futurists, making her one of two futurists from the U.S. Federal Government. She has an MA from the National Defense University in Strategic Security Studies.